Communities rally in support of needy fam..

Jim Reeves, Sumpter Township supervisor, exemplified what most elected officials in the area are thinking when he said: "We can't at this time of human emergency turn our backs on those who need us. We must find ways to help our unemployed."

From Sumpter, where there is an estimated 30 percent of the more than 8,000 residents out of work, to Westland, where an estimated 18 percent of the 84,000 residents are seeking employment, people and organizations are rallying to help those less fortunate.

"Our township has been hit hard by unemployment," Reeves said. "We can't at this time turn our backs on those people. We're discussing with groups and churches what we can all do to help out."

The Romulus City Council last Tuesday took up the issue of the unemployed and discussed organizing "soup kitchens" to provide at least "one hot meal for those who need it."

The council, led by councilman Jimmie Raspberry, asked the administration to come back "with what can be done to establish a food assistance program."

The response was in the council's package last night in the form of a memorandum authored by Patrick A. Hogan, director of Community Development and Purchasing.

In the memorandum to council, Hogan stated that: "I have spoken to Al Shelly, Director of the Romulus Help Center in regard to this issue... it would seem that our Help Center would be the natural distribution point.

"Mr. Shelly is looking into this program and indicated that he would respond as soon as he knew something. Mr. Shelly also informed me that he has reason to believe that the Wayne-Metropolitan Community Service Agency ... money to admin... ...program of this sort."

Hogan stressed that he had informed Congressman William Ford's office that the city was interested in finding out whether there were any federal programs or money available.

Cargo plane explodes over city

Searchers seek 2 bodies, radioactive material

A United Airlines DC-8 cargo plane exploded in mid-air over Romulus shortly after takeoff from Metropolitan Airport yesterday morning, killing all three crew members and leaving among its smoldering debris radioactive material that officials said "posed no danger unless consumed."

The plane was bound for Los Angeles and had aboard medical supplies and mail bags.

One of the bodies of the crewmen was recovered, while officials continued their search for the remaining two members of the Los Angeles-based crew.

The cargo plane exploded around 3 a.m. and ditched in a muddy field in the Northline and Wayne Rd. area. Rescue efforts were hampered because the "field was knee deep in mud, causing vehicles to become clogged", officials say.

Only the tail of the smoldering airplane remained intact and FAA officials conducted an intensive search of the area in hopes of recovering a box that contained tapes of the flight.

Wayne County Sheriff-designate Loren Pittman and county executive William Lucas were at the scene.

"Pieces of the bodies have been found," Pittman said, "however, at this time we can't make a positive determination that all three bodies have been accounted for."

U.S. Postal Authorities were on the scene to search for and protect some 3,000 pounds of mail that had been aboard the plane. The mail was scattered over a 500-yard area after the plane exploded and officials searched through the muddy fields to find the pieces.

Although the radioactive material, destined for a hospital in Los Angeles, was not found yesterday, officials stressed that "the material is not dangerous unless consumed."

Romulus Police Sgt. John Verrot told reporters that two of his patrol units saw the crash.

"They observed the plane take off," he said, "then one of the engines blew up and there was a large ball of fire. They related that pieces of the aircraft were coming down from the sky. The airship then went down in a nearby field."

Police later said that they apparently had found the flight recorder tape but FAA officials refused yesterday to confirm that report.

Councilman Barry Baumann, who lives in the area, gave this report:

"I was watching TV around 3 a.m. when there was a sudden boom. And "boom" is the best way to describe it. All of a sudden the house shook. Naturally I looked outside and the sky was bright orange.

"I just knew it was a plane. I have a police scanner and heard the report that a plane was down in the area, so I dressed as quickly as I could and went to look.

"As I was going down Goddard road, emergency vehicles began arriving at the scene. You could see the flames and smoke from the crash, but a lot of vehicles couldn't get into the area because of the mud. I saw several airport rescue vehicles stuck before they could get to the scene.

"It's a tragedy when people die like that, But, thank God, no one on the ground was killed. I immediately thought about when that plane went down in Louisiana — right into that residential district."

Wayne County Road heavy equipment crews were sent to the area to pull out the stranded vehicles from the mud.

Flights in and out of Metro Airport were not disturbed, airport officials said.

A tragic end to journey

Buried deep in the rain-soaked soil, this DC-7 United Airlines cargo plane carried its crew to their deaths early Wednesday morning as the plan exploded in the skies over Romulus shortly after takeoff from Metropolitan Airport. FAA authorities have managed to find the flight recorder and are hoping it will provide clues to the fiery tragedy. Law enforcement agencies also are seeking containers of radioactive material which were being shipped to a Los Angeles Hospital. The radioactive material, authorities stress, is not harmful unless consumed. (More photos of tragedy on A-6)

School Supt. issues 'paper' on state test controversy

A controversial two-part series of articles which appeared in a downriver newspaper has caused some concerns and embarrassment for the Romulus Community Schools, Supt. of Schools William Bedell said today.

"I feel that these two articles were based on partial knowledge of what happened and I feel that the author didn't take the time to get the entire story.

"Although there is 'Freedom of the Press', sometimes I believe some reporters abuse that freedom," Supt. Bedell said. "I do not know of anyone who would ask a teacher to cheat so that her or she or the school district will look good. I feel that an injustice has been committed here."

What had happened is that a local teacher had used an old state test to prepare his students for last fall's Michigan Education Assessment Program (MEAP) tests. Ironically - a one in a million shot, according to state authorities-the same questions appeared on the fall test that were used in the previous test.

In a written statement to all the teachers and school officials in the school system, Dr. Bedell clarified the issue.

"A downriver newspaper has reported on at least two different occasions that 'anonymous' Romulus teachers have alleged to them that we cheated on the MEAP Test administered last October. We had explained to the reporter that what had happened was an error at the High School that was caused indirectly by my concern that we help our kids do better on the test. No one in this school district told anyone to cheat on the test. No one deliberately violated any of the State's rules.

"At the 4th and 7th grade levels, there was absolutely no problem, there was only the incident at the high school. In the time I have been in this school district, our instructional staff has made real strides in helping our young people understand the importance of this test and in communicating the concepts and goals involved. I consider the charges made in the newspaper by the 'anonymous' sources as total nonsense and an insult to all of us. I have asked to meet with the paper and their sources to clear the air, and they have refused.

"The long term solution for the problems of this school district lie with our community. We must gain their support; and the false, negative publicity we're receiving from this incident is of no help to any of us.

Omnicom survives Canton franchise revocation test

The Canton Township Board of Trustees voted unanimously Tuesday night to stop franchise revocation proceedings against Omnicom of Michigan, Inc., the community's cable television firm.

By a 7-0 vote, the trustees also directed the Canton cable TV committee to review Omnicom's operations and report back to the board on the company's progress by next Oct. 1.

With the board's action, a public hearing to discuss Omnicom's performance, scheduled for later in January, has been cancelled.

Officials of the cable TV company vowed to work with the trustees on improving the system.

"We will do everything in our power to cooperate (with the board) and get the job done," said William R. James, president of the cable division of Capital Cities Communications, Omnicom's parent corporation.

James told the board that the improvements promised by Omnicom at its Dec. 14 presentation to the board can be incorporated into the contract between the company and the township.

According to Betsy Seely, Omnicom's general manager, new equipment already is on the way.

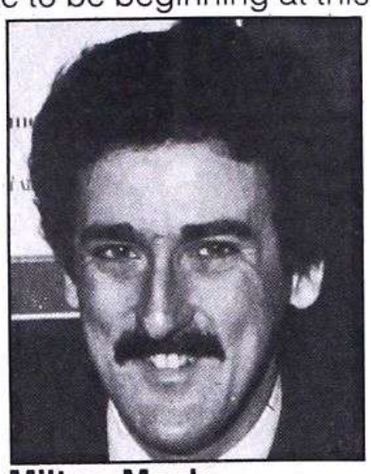
It was a very good year...

1983 . . . the beginning of a brand new year. And with the new year and the hopes for the future come memories of the past. Associated Newspapers staff members queried several well known local citizens as to the year they would most like to be beginning at this time and elicited some most enlightening answers . . .

Carol Bodenmiller
Canton Board of Trustees

"I've never wanted to start a year over again. No matter how bad a year is, you learn from it; it gives you more depth and more understanding. Start a year over again? Uh-uh."



Milton Mack
Wayne County Commissioner

"The year I'm starting is one of the most interesting and challenging I could conceive. This is a historic time in county government. I'd say I have to look forward. This year offers great promise"

Har Hargrove
President Wayne Rotary Club

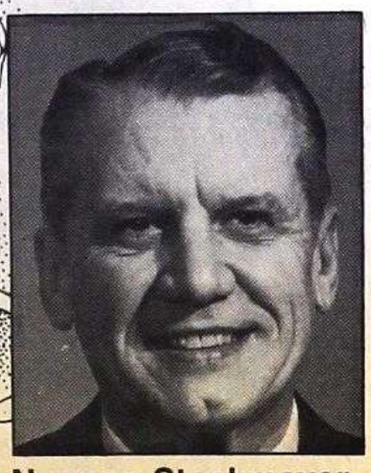
"The year I got married — I don't even want to tell you how long ago that was. Actually, 1955, and it's been a tremendous relationship. I'd live it over because it was the greatest time of my life."

Donald Flood
Romulus Police Chief

"I think I'd want to say 1981 because the experience I have now would be invaluable then. If I had this experience in 1981 it would be easier for me to start the Romulus Police Department."

Dale Farland
Westland Planning Director

"I would say it would probably be my eighteenth year. That was my freshman year in college. I'd only go back on the supposition that I had the knowledge of what my future would bring."



Norman Stockmeyer
Michigan State Board of Education

"Probably the year I got married...that was 1933 right after all the banks closed 50 years ago. I was very lucky and I got a wonderful wife so that would be a good place to start over."

Manny Lentine
Purchasing Director
Wayne Westland Schools

"It would be 1951 for several reasons. I got married that year and I earned my permanent secondary school teaching certificate and I got my job teaching and coaching at St. Mary's School of Wayne where I stayed for 20 years."

Diane Rohraff
Westland City Clerk

"I would pick 1979. That year my family and I went to Honolulu for a family reunion of my side of the family. It was the first chance my children had to learn about my heritage."

Donna McEachern
Wayne Chamber of Commerce President

"I think I'd relive 1976 but I'd change the scenario a little. That was the year my husband had a serious heart attack and I'd just erase that. I'd never have that happen."

Mary Dingeldey
Canton Sesquicentennial Committee Co-chairman

"Of all my years, I'd choose 1982 and relive it in exactly the same way. I had been diagnosed as having leukemia in 1980 and went through a bone marrow transplant in June 1981. I wouldn't change a thing."

John Flodin
Canton Township Clerk

"I guess I would pick 1938, the year I graduated from old Wayne High School. It was a great time of my life — I had just received a football scholarship and I was young enough to think the world was my oyster."

Mary Lou Carey
Huron Township Clerk

"Let's try 1933, as I'll hit the half century mark this year. That would take my back to the very beginning. All the good things I could do again and all the bad things I'd try not to do at all."

Wiley Williams
Inkster City Manager

"I would rather be living in 1983 that any other time. The only things I'm sure of are the things I have lived and experienced. The experience I've had would be invaluable to me."

Sharon Scott
Wayne Westland Board of Education

"This one. Probably because I feel I've grown in the last few years and this is the best time of my life. You can't look back — you have to look forward."

Don Massey
Don Massey Cadillac

"If I had a year to relive it would be 1945 when I got married. I'd take the time off and have a year-long honeymoon with that lovely little girl to whom I've been married 37 years. I would've had plenty of time to work after that."

Betty Miller
Inkster City Clerk

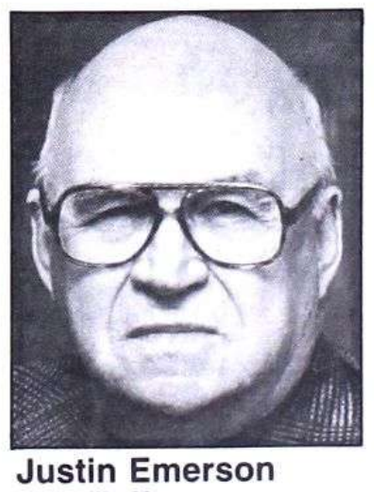
"Being an optimistic person, I have never been one to look back and say 'what if' and 'wish it had been so.' Maybe we could refer to Lot's wife — if you look back, you may turn into a pillar of salt."

Audrey Tucker
Coordinator of Adult Senior Programming in Wayne

"It would be 1976, the year I was offered this job. I was 40 years old and hadn't really worked outside the home after spending 20 years raising a family. I was so honored and yet so unsure of myself. I really love the people and working with the seniors."

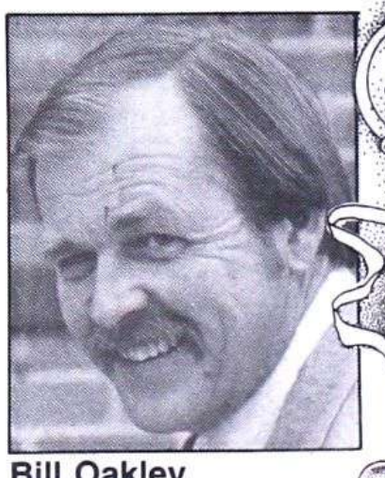
Jeffrey Jahr
City Attorney
Westland

"I think it would be 1964. That was, I guess, my best year. It was my senior year in college and I met and was courting my wife. I met roommates who remain good friends. It was a good year for politics with the Goldwater-Johnson split."



Justin Emerson
Belleville Mayor

"I expect it would probably be 1941-1942. That was the first year I was married and right after that year I went back into the army for three years. That year was a very happy time — we established a home. It meant a great deal to us."



Bill Oakley
Romulus Mayor

"I'd like to relive them all. They've been very good years. I don't know of any one year that was special. The bottom line is that I've been lucky — I haven't had any really bad years."

Omnicom survives revocation proceedings

"We have two 'suitcase studios' on order, and a third can be ordered if the need arises," Seely said. "We'll start out with two on a shared basis and find out what kind of demand there is for them."

Once the new equipment arrives, the company will have five portable broadcast and video tape units available for governmental and community use, she said.

Trustee Robert Padget asked if customers will still have to order the "satellite tier" option in order to sign up for the Showtime premium channel, but James said that new converters will solve the problem.

"The new 60-channel converters will enable subscribers to receive Showtime without paying for the satellite tier," James said. "The two services no longer will be connected."

Several audience members expressed displeasure over the dropping of WCR, a New York City "superstation," from the Omnicom programming roster last weekend.

Seely explained that a recent ruling by a copyright tribunal made it too costly for the company to continue offering three cable superstations.

"The ruling increased our copyright fees by 645 percent," Seely said. "We had to drop one of the services, so we had a professional marketer poll the subscribers and find out their preferences."

The poll showed that WTVS from Atlanta was the viewers' favorite superstation, followed by WGN from Chicago. Ranking third, and therefore dumped, was WCR, she said.

If the tribunal ruling is reversed, WCR will be brought back, Seely said. The firm is now studying the possibility of filling the void left by the New York station with a service called the Learning Channel, she said.

"We have almost everything we can carry now except for a couple of religious channels and a couple of pornographic channels," she said.

Trustee Stephen Larson said the decision on dropping WCR, instead of one of the other services, was totally up to the company.

"If Omnicom makes the right decision, they retain their subscriber base," Larson said. "If they make the wrong decision, they'll lose that base."

Among the other changes Omnicom officials promised last month to put into effect are the hiring of additional staff, expanded local programming and the institution of two-way communications in 1983.

The Canton cable TV committee — comprised of Larson, Jim Kronberg and Chuck Miller — told the township board in October that they did not believe Omnicom was living up to the terms of its original proposal. The panel recommended that the board begin franchise revocation proceedings to force the firm to improve its service.

1,377 lost lives in auto accidents

Noting that the decline of motor vehicle traffic accident fatalities in recent years continued last year in Michigan, State Police Director Col. Gerald L. Hough reported that the state has recorded a provisional toll of 1,377 for 1982, the lowest annual loss since 1,382 deaths in 1958.

While the present count will increase slightly due to delayed reporting, he said the continuing decrease in yearly deaths is encouraging. As of January 6 accounting, fatalities in 1982 have declined by 13.3 per cent from 1,589 in 1981 and by 44.6 per cent from the state's highest recorded total of 2,487 in 1969.

Sharing credit for the lower toll, Hough said, was the increased use by motorists in Michigan of motor vehicle safety belts and child safety restraints. He added that other contributing factors in the decrease include greater citizen and law enforcement awareness of the drinking driver problem and selective enforcement efforts by state and local police at computer identified high-accident locations.

Traffic officers point out that the decrease in deaths in Michigan last year has been achieved with total statewide motor vehicle traffic mileage remaining about the same or a little less than the 62 billion miles recorded in 1981. Officers also look for another good low year for the death rate in 1982 per 100 million vehicle miles of motor vehicle travel. Michigan in 1981 had a mileage death rate of 2.56, lowest on the state's record.

State Police traffic figures show that State Police traffic figures show that Michigan had 16 traffic deaths over the Christmas holiday weekend, compared with 15 the year before, and 6 fatalities over the New Year period, compared with 17 a year earlier.

Ritter chairs panel

Ford seeks candidates for Congressional Medal of Merit awards

Congressman William D. Ford (D-Romulus) today named Douglas Ritter of Canton Township to chair his seventh annual Congressional Medal of Merit Awards program for outstanding youth.

An analyst with General Motors, Ritter served on the 1982 17-member award selection panel. He is charged with enlisting community leaders to represent each of the municipalities and townships in the 15th District to select young people who have made special contributions to their community, performed unusual heroic acts and/or have given significantly to humanitarian causes.

"I originally made the Congressional Medal of Merit Awards in 1976 in recognition of the nation's Bicentennial celebration, and found that the Downriver community was so enthusiastic about recognizing its promising youth that I decided to continue the program on an annual basis," Congressman Ford said.

"Too often there is a tendency to be critical of our young people. Through this program we pay tribute to the wealth of upstanding, conscientious and well-meaning young adults," he added.

Two awards will be given in each of the 20 communities in the 15th Congressuonal District. One will be for boys and girls aged 14 through 18, who are still seniors in high school, and the other for high school graduates aged 18 through 22.

To qualify for consideration, the accomplishments of these young people should represent a broad range of interests and activities. Accomplishments for which a nominee has received financial payment do not qualify. The medals will be personally presented by Congressman Ford in May.

WILLIAM D. FORD

Nomination forms are available after January 17 from Congressman Ford's District Offices: Wayne Federal Building, Wayne, Michigan 48184, (313/722-1411) or 31 South Huron Ypsilanti, Michigan 48197, (313/482-6636)

Applications must be postmarked no later than March 25, 1983.

Suzore gets job

County elects first chairman of Board of Commissioners

Wayne County Commissioner William G. Suzore, the new chairman of the County Board of Commissioners is a first among firsts.

He is the first chairman of a new Wayne County Board of Commissioners — the first elected under home rule charter government — and the first and only of its kind in the state.

In the organizational meeting on Jan. 5, Suzore was chosen by his colleagues to steer the new 15-member body, reduced from 27 members under provisions of a new charter which for the first time divides the County's official legislative and adminsitrative functions and grants power to make law in the form of ordinances.

Also at that meeting, the commissioners named Edward J. Plawecki their vice-chairman. Plawecki is a Dearborn Heights attorney serving his first term on the Board, while Suzore is a veteran public servant in his fourth phase of County evolution.

Suzore joined the County as a member of the old Board of Supervisors, the 135-member appointed group preceding the elected Board of Commissioners that consisted first of 26 members in 1969, and was expanded to 27 a year later on the basis of census data.

Suzore has served throughout that duration, and is now chief of the new 15-member legislative Board.

Even before elected County Commissioner in Nov., 1970, Suzore was City Clerk for Lincoln Park for 15 years. Altogether, that is nearly 30 years in elected or appointed public office.

Immediately past, Suzore has been chairman of the Ways and Means Committee for two years consecutively, and prior to that, chairman of the Human Resources Committee, chairman of a special sub-committee studying tuberculosis care, and vice-chairman of the General Government Committee. He is also a member of the Charter Transition Committee, a member of the Corrections Committee and the Financial Crisis Committee.

Suzore succeeds former Chairman Samuel A. Turner, who two years ago called Suzore one of the busiest members of the Board. This week, Suzore said he is "happy and delighted" with his new duties and wants the Board to work in harmony with the County executive branch to best serve the needs of all the citizens of Wayne County.

Tragic end to flight

The remnants of a United Airlines DC-7 cargo plane hold the grim secrets to what caused the aircraft to explode over the skies of Romulus early Wednesday morning and plummet into a field on Northline near Romulus City Hall. The plane carried its three-member crew to their deaths shortly before 3 a.m. leaving the FAA with a mystery they hope to unravel from the flight recordings. Romulus firefighters and emergency units faced near-impregnable obstacles as rain-soaked soil sucked up emergency vehicles rushing to the scene of the tragedy. At the left, the firefighters put out the final smoldering flickers of flame that covered a 500 yard area. Law enforcement agencies are still searching for the bodies of two of the crewmen and for containers of radioactive material destined for a Los Angeles hospital.

School board fills vacancy

A mother of three who also is very busy and concerned about the school district was appointed to the Inkster Board of Education.

Ann Coleman will replace trustee Mary Burge on the board. Mrs. Burge resigned Dec. 2. In her resignation letter she pointed out that she was moving out of the school district and, therefore, was ineligible to continue to serve on the board.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

By John Brimble

Spiced fruits are a delicious accompaniment to any poultry dish. Bring ¾ cup water to a boil with 1 Tbs. butter, 1 stick of cinnamon (broken), 3 cloves, and 2 tsp. sugar. Add a 12-ounce package of mixed dried fruit and simmer until fruits are soft, about 30 minutes.

• • •

You can plump up dried raisins or dates by steaming them over water.

• • •

You don't have to defrost ground meat patties; pop them frozen into the pan, the broiler, or the microwave. They'll defrost quickly as they cook, and the insides will stay juicy and rare. (If you prefer to thaw, it's safer to do it in the refrigerator.)

• • •

Add flavor to green beans or broccoli with a couple of cut garlic cloves in the cooking water. Remove them before serving.

They're real scouts

Recently, the Wayne Rotarians came up with $900 of their funds to support the 10,000-member-strong Huron Valley Girls Scouts organization. In appreciation of that support, the Girl Scouts reciprocated by presenting a plaque of appreciation to the Rotarians. On hand to accept the plaque is Wayne Rotary Club President Har Hargrove and marking the presentation is Sally Netzel, third vice president of the Girls Scouts: The scouts will use the funds for their many programs and for camping trips.

Operas are planned

Parents' group finds support for the arts

There is a great deal of excitement being generated these days in the Romulus Community Schools due to the energetic efforts of many parents and the Romulus Parents Area Council.

Object of the flurry is the spring opera performance being scheduled for all Romulus elementary students.

The operas, which will be free to all students will be performed by the Piccolo Opera Co., a professional touring company and sponsored by R.P.A.C. at a cost of nearly $10,000.

The program consists of a performance of "Hansel and Gretel" for students in kindergarten through third grade while fourth through sixth graders will enjoy "Adverture in Space," an E.T.-like story presented as an opera. In all, approximately 3,000 Romulus students will attend.

R.P.A.C. was founded approximately one year ago as a community-wide catalyst to foster greater effectiveness in education for Romulus students. R.P.A.C. president Howard Kesner feels: "We've made great progress in Romulus, being able to celebrate our organization's first anniversary by presenting a superb experience in art for our students. We have a lot of people to thank."

In planning this major event, the group has drawn on all sectors of the community, as well as the Michigan Council for the Arts.

Judith James, a teacher at Cory Elementary School, is serving as Project Director, and has received much advice and guidance from David Parzyck, Arts Consultant for the Wayne County Intermediate School District.

In her official statement of project guidelines, James says "R.P.A.C. will use this project as the premier activity of a long range of arts experience for Romulus students. This project will create an awareness in the community of the value of arts in education."

In order to maximize the educational aspects of the opera, the students will be involved in activities based on the Opera Study Guide published by the Michigan Council for the Arts but revised for elementary level students. Participating teachers will be engaged in "in-service" training relative to Arts Education. "We believe the arts are a necessary aspect to a total education," James said.

Due to drastic financial cutbacks in the Romulus School District, all areas of the arts have been eliminated from the elementary level of education.

R.P.A.C.'s immediate goal is to involve and solicit community support for the arts and to renew the District's commitment to a quality education, with greater emphasis on the Arts.

According to Kesner, plenty of community support has been forthcoming thus far. With his generous contribution to support the event, Senator William Faust (D-Westland) said: "We must all roll up our sleeves and pitch in."

Mayor William Oakley said: "It is my belief that the residents of Romulus are deserving of the opportunity to support a 'Fine Arts' program in our community."

Kesner added, "Again the business community of Romulus is coming through with support for a great cause. Our city is blessed with a deep reservoir of self pride and determination to grow, especially through our children."

A spokesman for one contributor, K & D Industrial Services, Inc. pointed out that "with this donation, we know that elementary school children will be given the opportunity to grow in an area which too often is forgotten, especially in hard times."

Referring to the great progress being made, Kesner said, "It's unbelievable, but this is a very large project and there is still plenty of room for more help."

Anyone interested in helping on this project should call Pat Ditsch at 941-0558.

"We are trying to contact all businesses and organizations in the community as well as individuals to insure we raise all the money needed. We have calculated that a $60 tax deductible donation will sponsor 50 kids for the opera.

"In addition, we are printing a program guide and selling space very reasonably to advertisers."

Anyone interested should contact Kesner at 941-1825.

The Romulus Parents Area Council does not want to confine its activities only to presenting new experiences to the students.

According to Vice-President Pat Ditsch the organization is committed to the total education effort.

"We hope to improve communication and understanding between parents, teachers, administrators, and our students."

The group is made up of representatives of parent-teacher groups, and organizations throughout Romulus. Every school has membership, and all parents are encouraged to participate. The next scheduled meeting of R.P.A.C. is scheduled for February 1 at Barth Elementary School, starting at 7:30 p.m., and is open to all.

At Wick School

Pupils enter the computer age

Wick Elementary School, the site of many innovative and progressive educational programs, has now entered the computer age according to school principal Richard Goode.

Eliminating the frustration experienced by mere humans attempting to convey to seemingly deaf ears that, nine times seven equals sixty-three or that I comes before E except after C, the computer never loses its temper, nor shifts moods as it reiterates information as many times as necessary to elicit a correct answer.

Then, it joins the students in celebrating the success.

Such patience pays off in better understanding of reading and math for selected students in grades three through six who qualify for a federally funded program.

The pilot project is under the direction of Marge Van Horn and has 90 students who spend up to 2½ hours a week in a special reading and math lab working with computers to increase their skills.

"I can see some real promise in this program," said Mrs. Van Horn. "Children who require special attention are able to keep up with their regular classroom work and still get all the individualized attention and reinforcement they need."

Assisting Mrs. Van Horn in the project are paraprofessionals Lois Streety, Carole Mason, Carol Abbley and Irene Scheffer.

A demonstration for parents will be held on Feb. 2 at 7:00 p.m. at Wick Elementary School The public is welcome to attend.

Local selectees include Richard D. Cochran, Ashok V. Patel and Robert F. Stiffler, all from Canton and all from the University of Michigan at Dearborn; Dean R. Schultz of Canton, from Brigham Young University at Provo, Utah; Robert T. Taepke of New Boston from the University of Michigan at Dearborn; and three Romulus residents: Sandra L. Warming mocha drinks chase the chills away

Whatever your thing — skiing, jogging, or a brisk walk outdoors — nothing satisfies like a bracing beverage on a wintry day.

Hot Mocha Foam is the perfect weather warmer for savoring alone or with company. It's a delicious combination of Swiss style instant coffee beverage (a subtle blend of coffee and cocoa), milk and marshmallows. Serve these mugs of foamy delight with light desserts for refreshments any time of the day.

The family of international coffee beverages, each one a complete mix with its own distinctive flavor, provides beverage refreshment as-is, or with the addition of a few ingredients. Spiced Orange Beverage, a delicious orange and spice flavored drink, is prepared easily with Italian style instant coffee beverage.

HOT MOCHA FOAM

⅓ cup General Foods International Coffees, Suisse mocha
4½ cups milk
18 large marshmallows

Combine instant coffee beverage and milk in saucepan. Add marshmallows and heat until marshmallows are melted, stirring frequently. Serve at once. Makes 4½ cups or 6 servings.

For 4 servings, use ¼ cup instant coffee beverage, 3 cups milk and 12 marshmallows.

For 1 serving, use 2 well-rounded teaspoons instant coffee beverage, ¾ cup milk and 3 marshmallows.

SPICED ORANGE BEVERAGE

⅓ cup General Foods International Coffees, orange cappuccino
2 cups boiling water
2 tablespoons sugar
¼ teaspoon grated or slivered orange rind
Dash of ground bay leaves
Dash of ground cloves

Place instant coffee beverage mix in saucepan. Stir in boiling water; add sugar, orange rind and spices. Stir over low heat until hot. Serve at once with additional slivered orange rind and cinnamon stick stirrers, if desired. Makes about 2 cups or 3 servings or 6 demitasse servings.

For 1 serving or 2 demitasse servings, use 1 tablespoon instant coffee beverage, ½ cup boiling water, 1½ teaspoons sugar and a dash each of grated orange rind, bay leaves and cloves.

potpourri

"Today I've discovered how to take the drudgery out of housework — I didn't do any!"

How'd you like to greet your hubby on his return from work with that remark — still in your robe, slippered feet propped on an Ottoman, box of chocolates at your side and the television aglow in the foreground?

Sound great, unreal? Wouldn't you like to have a hellwithit attitude and try it?

The aforementioned situation and dialogue were taken from a "Trudy" cartoon by that clever Jerry Marcus and it said in print what so many of us "household engineers" would like to say verbally.

I loved it because that very day I'd put in hours in that most thankless of jobs — cleaning house. Pooey!

Having had the family home (a little tyke and year-old Cocker included) the daily chores were blatantly neglected — ignored if you want to know the truth! No one cared how often the dust settled and resettled throughout that 'tween-the-holidays week; no one noticed the fireplace doors had turned to curtains of soot; not a one suggested we vacuum the "multi-textured" carpeting; no one was disturbed by little fingerprints left in candy cane flavors; nary a soul mentioned the picture window or patio door's obvious fall from sparkling grace; everyone was blind to the fluffy "curls" forming on the entry slate; no one cared that Matt's toys produced an obstacle course across the room or that Molly's "bones" made for some interesting stepping.

Need I point out that we were a pretty ho-hum, laid-back bunch that particular week? Or need I say I'd not have wanted drop-in guests at that time?

I might add, however, that they would have been ushered into the living room (whatever happened to "parlour"?) where things had remained a bit more refined. And also that they'd not have gone away hungry. All that pre-holiday cooking and baking had been worth the time and effort; we smorgasborded enthusiastically, nutritionally (?) and constantly!

Getting back to that dirty word "housework" — a nasty one whose meaning should also include "a bore!" I'd mentioned in earlier columns that I sometimes got my jollies in some weird ways; well, you can bet your last poinsettia blossom that cleaning house isn't one of 'em.

Oh, don't worry you Mrs. Clean's out there — the house is in order. Even managed to wash the freckles off that 3-part kitchen window (getting BG to drag out the ladder for the 2-story work involved with the outer panes.) Although winter window washing is not my forte, it's a relief to know the neighbor's house actually is gray.

I didn't feel a big whoop-de-do building in my lungs as we ousted the Christmas tree — actually I sorta miss the pretty, pudgy little thing. I did feel something building up in my stomach, though, as I bent to the task of plucking pine needles out of the shag rug. But remembrances of that tree usually linger and can often be felt well into summer when bare feet are the norm.

I'd rather have viewed the Rose Bowl parade sitting cozily (in my robe and slippers) rather than standing atop a step-stool adjacent to the Scotch pine. I'd rather have been sipping a mug of something warm and mellow than to be stripping the branches of their finery. I'd much preferred re-reading my holiday cards than hunting for storage boxes in the basement. I'd rather have been curled with with that good novel or current magazine than doing aerobics with the vac tube. I'd rather have been fresh and perky for the neighbor's "big game" party rather than wilted and running on too few cylinders.

Despite the lack of enthusiasm with which I tackle housecleaning, I managed (over the next three days) to finally get 8808 up to board-of-health standards.

The coffee table's missing its tiny smudges while the grandparents-two are missing the little smudgee. The bathroom's lacking the clutter which only three females can amass but the house is also lacking the laughter of the clutterees; the 'fridge is void of its frosty "light" supply but the lounge is also void of its drinkees. The kitchen's minus a doggie bowl and the cellar's minus a newspaper floor but they're also minus the usee.

The family room's still aglow, though, with its ritual evening blaze. Only now the flames behind those polished glass doors are reflected in a sparkling glass table top without a parade of smurfs crossing. The carpeting is once more soft-to-the-touch; there's no dust or doggie hair to cling to dark slacks; no cups, glasses plates or napkins scattered about; no shoes lying helter-skelter. So — if everything's in such A-one order, why am I not?

I sometimes wonder if too much cleanliness can be harmful to your health?

TAKE A MOMENT TO SMILE

A WOMAN approached a lawyer and demanded that he help her divorce her husband. "Do you have grounds?" the lawyer asked.

"Oh, yeah, we have an acre.,"

The lawyer pondered this in silence for a moment. "What I mean is, do you have a grudge?"

"No," she answered, "but we have a carport."

The lawyer decided he'd use another tactic. "Does your husband beat you up?"

"No, I'm usually up before him by half an hour."

The lawyer silently acknowledged his defeat. "Lady, exactly why do you want a divorce?"

"Why, it's just impossible to hold an intelligent conversation with that man!"

TRIVIA, ANYONE?

Short subjects

Get optimum results and satisfaction from your kitchen clean-up appliances and still save electricity. Here are a few helpful tips:

DISHWASHERS

Run full loads only. It takes just as much soap, water and electricity to do a partial load, so wait until you have a full load.

A grounded plug is necessary for your safety.

Water temperature should be between 140° and 160° F. If the temperature is too low, your dishes won't get clean; on the other hand, if the water is too hot, the food soil will bake on.

Your detergents should be fresh, so don't buy large quantities at a time. Normally, an additional box or two should be ample supply to keep on hand.

DISPOSALS

Always run cold water through the disposer during its use and for several seconds after. This will flush away the refuse and keep the drain lines clean.

To assure good grinding, it is a good practice to mix soft food waste with harder pieces, but be sure those harder pieces don't include metal, glass, china, bottle caps, etc.

COMPACTORS

The compactor takes disposable products that cannot be put through your disposer.

To get the best use out of your compactor wait until you have several waste items in the drawer before you energize the appliance. Avoid turning it on for single pieces of trash.

SAWMILLS DWINDLE

U.S. lumber mills declined by more than one-third in the ten years preceding 1973, reports the Bureau of Census. But more than 8000 still were operating.

our opinions

He had a dream- May it never end

There is a saying about "all men being created equal." We know that that's all bunk. No way. Somehow in the great scheme of things some people are blessed with a little more, others with a lot more than those of us who have to slave to make ends meet. The injustices are there, even if the beautiful words will tell us that it isn't so.

And, to make it even rougher on some, we find that they are discriminated against. Because they are tall. Small. White skinned. Black skinned. And with every difference there's always discrimination.

That petite and gracious black seamstress who, on that brisk December day in 1955, was physically and emotionally spent, knew it. She saw it all around her. She was conditioned by her parents, her friends the society that "the white folks ways come first."

And that seamstress, Mrs. Rosa Parks, finally decided to challenge that unwritten law. She refused to give up her seat on a bus to a white person and the rest is history.

History. Will we ever learn from it?

The recent incidents in Miami seem to say "No." It appears that this world will never learn from the past. Or that it plain doesn't want to.

And then came Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. He said he "had a dream". And people listened. Some cried; some laughed. Big deal. In fact someone got a gun and decided to shatter that dream. And the assassin thought he did when he hit his target on April 4, 1968.

Strange, King's dream didn't die. It still lives, and amid the controversy there remains the same radiant light that other martyrs have left, a light of hope that true people are guided by . . . people are people. Their skins don't make them any different. We all have the same feelings, aspirations and dreams. Intelligent people react to people not because of their skin, but because of the way they are treated.

Like Gandhi, King knew that passive resistance was the key to any civil reform. Violence only begets violence. King had learned from Jesus of Nazareth and Mohandas K. Gandhi that one can turn the other cheek, but he also knew that he had to be militant enough within the bounds of the law to reach the goals he and his people had in sight: Not equal rights, but the rights of a man to live without fear because of the color of his skin.

King was admired and respected by presidents and leaders of the world. His people looked upon him as a saviour. He was feared by his enemies, who knew the only way to silence him was to "get rid of" him.

But, the bullet that killed the civil rights leader, ironically kept alive his philosophy.

His dream has not died, as you will hear and read over and over in the days, months and years to come.

Where were councilmen?

EDITOR — On January 6 at 7:30 p.m. Westland Mayor Charles Pickering Jr. held a meeting in the Bailey Building. The purpose of this meeting was to discuss the area's high unemployment problem.

A statement was made by a reliable source, that there are 5,000 unemployed families in the city of Westland alone. Figuring 3.2 persons per family, that's over 15,000 hungry people in dire need of help.

This meeting was well advertised, in the local newspaper. Letters were sent to business people, and organizations, such as the Lions, Goodfellows, Kiwanis, A.A.A. etc., to participate in the discussion.

A letter was also mailed to the president of the city council to attend this meeting. The only council person who attended was Nancy Neal.

For some reason the other five chose not to attend. Perhaps their attitude is so callous that they don't care about the needy in this community or maybe they are too busy figuring out what candidate they will cast their vote for to fill the vacant chair left by the departure of one council member.

Mobile park project has many merits

We would appreciate publishing our reply to the Guest Editorial that appeared last week about the proposed Mobile Park Home in last week's edition written by John McCartney.

First of all, with reference to Mr. McCartney's argument relative to the Master Plan he should be advised that the Master Plan prepared six years ago is by law and practice to be treated and utilized as a "general guide" for planning.

It is not holy scripture that cannot be changed. A review of the Professional Planning Consultants detailed recommendation supporting the Master Plan Amendment and Rezoning of Wineman Investment Co.'s property states:

"The need for additional housing is well documented, particularly affordable housing. Mobile homes are a generally lower cost form of housing which are attractive and affordable to lower income residents who are in the elderly and the younger stages of the age cycle. The City and State have regulations to assure quality mobile home park development... In any event, the Plan Amendment would leave a very significant amount of attractive developable acreage in both the single family and the Regional Center Classifications."

As to the benefits of our proposed development for the citizens of Romulus we point to the following:

1— $311,450. in total annual property taxes versus the current $24,120.

2— $202,490 in school taxes versus the current $15,680.

3— $550,000 in sewer and water debt service charges.

4— As compared to a typical single family subdivision our development will relieve the City from paying for road maintenance and repair, snow removal, sewer and water line maintenance, street lighting and garbage and rubbish removal.

5— Provide affordable housing for existing Romulus Residents and new people helping to stimulate employment opportunities and benefit existing Romulus businesses.

It is not a question of "best use" it is the "only use" realistically available for this property. We have owned the land for twelve years and paid taxes during this period actively seeking alternative uses without success, nor have we ever received a legitimate offer to purchase. In the past ten years not a single new residential development of any kind has been built in Romulus except the subsidized Senior Citizens Project.

We respectfully urge the citizens of Romulus and it's political leaders to face reality and allow the community to grow rather than stagnate. Our young people and elderly should not be forced to leave the community to find affordable "ownership" housing and we should encourage new working people to come to our community and invest in Romulus' future.

The facts speak for themselves. Those who are honest and "courageous" enough to really analyze the development can only come to a positive conclusion, as did a very hard working Planning Commission. Any new development can be criticized by those who in truth are opposed to change. The question is whether Romulus as a viable community can survive without it. We think not, and we are prepared to put our firm's 100 year reputation as prominent and respectable businessmen on the line as well as a very substantial investment in 330 acres of land now utilized only for soybeans and development dollars.

We ask our critics what alternatives do they suggest and what are they prepared to back it up with?

'Right turn' should be abolished

EDITOR — Is anybody else as upset as I am about the right turn law? I got a ticket yesterday because I couldn't see the sign that said "No right turn on red light".

The sign was about 10 feet from the stop light and by the time I stopped, I was already past it. It's crazy to have a law on the books that only applies to certain street corners.

If you can turn right at some corners, you should be able to turn right at every corner.

Then there are the people who could turn right but won't. I know it's their right, but it makes it even more confusing when it's optional.

I think the law should be abolished. We wouldn't even miss it after a while.

Plane crash

Tom Mooradian
Managing Editor

It was an unseasonal January Sunday. More like a glimpse of March than January. And the topic turned to plane crashes and civil defense.

Doing the talking was Alan Lambert, good-looking, under 30, and a Romulus councilman who dropped by to clarify some points and pick up some in the conversation.

The question that ignited the discussion about civil defense was an occurrence last Wednesday in Romulus. Solventol Chemical Products on Huron River Drive was transferring some nitric acid from one of its tanks to another when suddenly a leak in one of the containers created a chemical reaction that forced acidic fumes into the atmosphere.

Police and fire fighters immediately responded to the scene and managed to evacuate the handful of residents in the area. In a nearby, densely populated subdivision, residents were notified that they may have to be evacuated.

"I live in that subdivision," Lambert said, "and believe me we had some concerns. I think we learned a lesson for this - we don't have a civil defense program. I'm going to ask council (Romulus) to investigate and initiate one immediately."

The situation at Solventol Chemical was defused by Romulus firefighters who sprayed water on the escaping fumes as they exited the faulty container, thereby, keeping the fume clouds at a minimum.

"One of the fortunate things about the situation," said Det. Sgt. David Early, "was that the wind was blowing away from the residential areas. It didn't shift, if it had we would have had to evacuate all of those people."

Nitric acid, if inhaled, can be fatal. Small doses can burn skin and cause eye damage.

It was the first of two dramas that occurred in Romulus in the past seven days. Early Tuesday morning a United Airlines DC-7 cargo plane en route to Los Angeles, carrying three crew members and radioactive material bound for a hospital, caught fire over the city and crashed in a field near the City Hall.

The plane missed residential areas.

"Thank God," said Barry Baumann, who lives in the area, and was one of the first at the scene of the accident. "You remember what happened in Louisiana last year when that plane crashed and took a score of lives on the ground with it.

"I believe that this city will have to begin developing a civil defense plan. That's all there is to it. We have one of the largest airports in the country (Metropolitan) and our people have to live with this every hour of the day."

You can bet that last night's Romulus Council meeting devoted most of its time to the crash.

Romulus was lucky - if there is any luck in a tragedy of this sort - but it may not be the next time around.

Ban handguns, they kill people

EDITOR —The 1984 national elections are closing in on us, and in a year we'll begin choosing the next President of the United States. One issue I want the voters of our area to address themselves to is the question of handgun control.

In western Wayne County, I think, the majority of people oppose handgun control.

A major misconception is that after handguns are illegal, rifles would be next. Most people who want handguns illegal don't want hunting guns illegal. Handguns, unlike rifles, are made only for killing people. Handguns bought for defense, when used, are used against the owner usually.

Many handgun deaths could have been avoided.

In the USA there are approximately 2,000 accidental deaths, caused by handguns, a year. There were 16,000 suicides by handguns in America in 1977. Around half of all murders in America involve handguns.

There are over 53 million handguns in the United States. Over 275,000 are stolen each year. Every 2 minutes someone is robbed with a handgun. I believe there is a connection here.

There is a bumper sticker floating around. It reads: "If handguns are outlawed, only outlaws will have handguns."

This insinuates that all criminals will still have handguns, and that the crime rate would not decrease. This is falsified by statistics comparing the world's two largest cities, New York City and Tokyo.

In Tokyo handguns are illegal, in New York handguns are legal. Tokyo's handgun murder rate is 1.9 per 100,000. New York City's handgun murder rate is 17.5 per 100,000.

If we made handguns illegal, we could cut the overall murder and rape rates by more than half. In Canada handguns are illegal. Compare the Canadian and American murder rates: USA 9.76 Canada 2.06. Compare the rape rates: USA 34.6 Canada 9.7. Canada and England, where handguns are illegal, have fewer than 100 handgun deaths each year. In the USA there are over 10,000 handgun deaths per year.

I realize that if handguns are illegal it won't eliminate handgun deaths, but we must do everything we can to lower the high rates of robbery, rape, and murder. When handguns kill and rob so many, I don't think they can be considered useful to society and must be eliminated.

Wayne wrestlers say 'thank you'

EDITOR–The Wayne Memorial High School wrestling team, coaches and booster club members wish to thank all of the people who helped to make our first garage sale, on December 18 a great success.

Many of our community members donated articles to be sold and many more came to purchase items.

Without the interest of this community our venture would have failed; we sincerely appreciate your support.

About Westland property taxes

EDITOR — After reading articles in your newspaper concerning the city's deficit, I was amused by Mayor Charles Pickering's reasoning for it. He seems to think he is the only elected official in the City of Westland who has to deliver on political promises, and if the Council does, as it did in lowering taxes and street lighting assessments it is "purely political".

In the last election several members of the Westland City Council promised to lower the taxes levied for City Operating Purposes. They did this even though the Mayor proposed substantial increases.

They also rolled back Street Lighting Assessments to the amount actually needed until the Mayor could come up with an equitable system of asessing Major Streets.

Mayor Pickering asked for considerably higher assessments on Residential Street Lighting while people on the major roads were to get lighting for free.

If the council wants to continue to do things for "the taxpayers" I say call them anything you want, but when the mayor recommends fringe benefit increases to only one city union to the exclusion of all others, what do you call that?

Where's news on Taylor Center?

EDITOR — For the past three or four months I have been reading your paper. The interest you have in the public school district is recognized greatly: Wayne/Westland, Westwood, Inkster and Cherry Hill have students that live in Inkster who read your paper.

I'm sure they appreciate the fact that you write about their schools, especially the high schools. Students become proud when they receive the credit they deserve in a paper of your standards.

As you praise these districts by publishing cafeteria menus, events of sports, special events and achievements of students, I'm wondering how could you possibly forget Taylor School District? Although there are only a few Inkster residents who have children attending Taylor Schools, the few are just as important. Please, try to include Taylor School District when you distribute praise and pride to Inkster's children.

Vietnam vets deserved tribute

EDITOR— I am gratified as I believe most of America is, that our governments - township, city and national - are finally paying tribute to our Viet Nam veterans.

But I worried, as did many of my friends, that they would not move on it, or try to make it political.

With this in mind, and after weighing the need to have it done, I submitted a request to the Westland City Council.

I am very pleased to say that Councilman Wagner asked that it be placed on the next agenda for action.

At the next meeting the council did indeed act on it. Finally, our men who served in Vietnam will be honored by a city, without it being made political. That makes me very happy, that a city, my city, was the first of many, (I hope) to take this great step that is long overdue.

And did so without delaying it or tying it to something else.

Mr. Kenneth Mehl, of our council, said that he thought it was a very good idea, and that he would be pleased to support it for immediate action, because of what it would mean to our men.

And that I need not be concerned about it being made political, because it would not. For that I would also like to say, that if persons in our community would like to do something for our soldiers, as a people, then I urge you to contact Kenneth Mehl, of our council, to see how you can help.

Three people will be honored by our city: Justine Barns (who received a plaque in December), Thomas Brown, who served us in Lansing and our men who fought in Vietnam, when asked to do so.

The one that means the most to me, however, is the one to our fighting men.

I hope that other cities will follow the example set by our council and honor their men, who fought for us when asked, and leave out the politics, as Westland has done.

Again, may I say "Thank You", to our council. I am very impressed with the speed in which you acted, without dragging your feet, as I had thought.

I do hope that this will help make up for the neglect from our cities; and that others will follow.

A response to capital punishment

EDITOR — Replying to Jane Watson's letter which appeared in The Associated Newspaperes last week. Ms. Watson stated that those of us who are against capital punishment should reconsider, as you feel that anyone who would kill a nine-month old infant should be put to death.

Yes, that is a terrible thing for anyone to have to deal with, but nevertheless, it is not up to you, me, or any other human being to take it upon ourselves to kill anyone no matter what he is guilty of.

God has said, "vengeance is mine", and "Thou shalt not kill."

If we decide that this murderer is to be killed, and condemn him to death, then we are in no way any better than he is. Two wrongs do not make a right.

My opinion is that certainly this person should be put away from society and kept away, not let out in a few short years to do the same again.

In fact this would be by far the greater punishment, for don't we all have to die at some time? Dying is not a punishment.

It is part of living.

So instead of us who are against capital punishment, changing our minds on the subject, why don't we all push for stricter laws that will keep these sick people out of circulation for a much longer period of time that the present laws seem to do?

Responsibilities of The Press

EDITOR — No doubt the Associated Newspapers article of January 6 concerning a public school teacher was innocently written without malice or intent to defame anyone.

But do you not have second thoughts about how Christian it is to publish something like that which could do horrendous damage to a professional person in the eyes of her students, their parents, and the community?

This reminds us that the "media" has an awesome community responsibility.

In fairness, is there not some way that amends can be made for the damage done?

The death of a dog

JOYCE HAGELTHORN

George (our dog) is dead.

"He died peacefully, Mom," my son, the flyer, said in a choked voice over the telephone. "He died in my arms."

And I could see my son holding his beloved pet close to him as the dog's spirit left his body to mingle eternally with the goodness of the beyond.

The lump in my throat kept any words of comfort from coming, and my eyes roved the room, until they lighted on the spot before the refrigerator where we had placed the basket for the wee baby pup to sleep, so many years ago.

Once again I saw my two littlest kids coming into the den with a puppy tucked in the arms of my boy, its little head popping over his arm, its long ears flopping about its black and white face. And the eyes. The huge eyes beseeched me to care.

"Can we keep him, Mom, can we?" the kids shouted, interspersing the shouts with the story of how the puppy had been abandoned at school and the principal had asked what kid had a mother who would want a puppy.

I said no, but the three pairs of eyes turned on me with great reproach, and utmost longing and finally I took that puppy into my arms, and he nestled down as if he had found his mother . . . and we kept him.

That first night he was lonely. He was such a tiny baby, and he cried and he cried, until I at last put on my robe and went downstairs and picked him up in my arms, wrapped him in a blanket and rocked him to sleep.

And as he nestled against me I found myself singing lullabies, and that is how George became a part of the family.

The lump in my throat became larger as I remembered the time he was run over by a car, and our littlest boy picked him up and carried him home, tears streaming down his face as the dog lay apparently lifeless in his arms.

But he rallied and made it through that trauma.

As time went on our son, who became the flyer, made George his very own. Wherever he went, George followed, and it finally became the consensus of the family that it was George and Allan . . . totally.

When he went away to school, George went with him. When he went away to become a pilot, George rode right along with him. The bond between the two was beautiful.

When they came home at Thanksgiving we knew that George was getting ready to leave us. No more did he leap through the door to greet incoming guests, no longer did he find his place under the table and under my feet, to beg scraps. Sometimes he would come and put his head in my lap and look up at me, and I wanted to cry for I had the feeling that George was closer to the other world, then he was to this.

And I dreaded his leaving us, not only for our sake, but mostly for the sake of my son, who loved him so dearly.

And then the end came. And it came where it should have come, in the arms of the young man who had loved him beyond the normal love of man for dog. He had loved him as a person, and as a person George had always responded, for after all, from the time he was sung to sleep, wrapped in a blanket and rocked, he had thought he was a person.

And so this is a goodbye to a pet who came into our lives so many, many years ago, when the children were young, and he grew with them, and loved them, and many lessons were learned from that love.

Goodbye, George (our dog), goodbye.

A community call for help

MONA GRIGG

Last week, Westland's mayor, Charles Pickering, called together community leaders and organization heads to talk about the hunger problem in Westland.

At the outset of the meeting, Pickering jolted the group by telling them that, of the 84,000 people living in Westland, roughly 25 percent of them were receiving some sort of public assistance.

But those figures, startling as they were, didn't begin to tell the whole story. As Pickering noted, there are people hiding out there. People out of work with no more unemployment money coming in, but with accumulated assets such as a house or a second car that keep them from qualifying for welfare benefits or even food stamps.

"These people don't want to be identified," Pickering said. "Their pride is all-important. Many, many of them have never had to live like this before."

Out of that meeting came an encouraging number of offers to help: Scout leaders will step up food collections, Skateland will host a skate night with all proceeds going to feed the hungry, the Lions club will recommend a "can a man" from their membership and will loan their bus at any time.

The Goodfellows and the Jaycees will continue their good Christmas work. The Kiwanis, the VFW, and the Senior Citizens are all itching to get into the battle, and Councilwoman Nancy Neal wrote a check, on the spot, for $1,000 — representing one half of her council salary.

Tyrone White and Gerald Arbour were there to explain AAA's "Operation Foodbasket", an effort to collect food for the hungry in Wayne, Westland, Garden City and Inkster.

The outpouring of concern at that meeting was overwhelming, but it was only the beginning. There are still problems to be worked out — from identifying the hungry and the "new poor", to coordinating the programs so that everyone isn't doing the same thing, to spreading the message and getting enough food, money and volunteer help.

I've spoken in the last few days to numerous people involved in programs in their own communities and I'm getting many different pictures: In some communities, they've been prepared — and have been doing — for a long time. In others, the impact of the unemployment situation in Western Wayne County is just now hitting them. Some of them haven't even thought about programs.

AWARENESS. That's the key word now. There are people out there, in every community, in desperate need. There are no jobs and they are running out of money. People aren't making house payments and they can't pay their utility bills. They've reached the bottom of the barrel and there's nothing there. And they're convinced it must be their fault.

AWARENESS. Someone has to tell those poeple — the people with no money and no jobs — that it wasn't anything they did or didn't do. They are victims of rising inflation, of Reaganomics, of the decline and fall of the auto industry. They're not alone in this; everyone is feeling the effects. There's nothing to be ashamed of.

AWARENESS. Everyone can help. Even those people who need it. The out-of-workers with nothing but time on their hands can volunteer to help fill food baskets — even if one of them is slated for delivery to his or her house. There is no "charity" when everyone is working together.

AWARENESS. For the next several weeks, I will devote this column space to spreading the word. We'll share information about community efforts and we'll take a deeper look at the hunger problem in our area. We'll look at how we're coping and how we're helping and we'll find out what the banks, stores, utilities companies, schools, churches and social services people are doing.

In this newspaper, we've provided a box called "Hunger Hotlines". It's a listing of community programs and contact people. The listings are far from complete, but it is a start.

If you have information to add to it, send it to me in care of Associated Newspapers, Box 578, Wayne, Michigan 48184. Or leave your name and number at The Associated Newspapers Office, 729-4000, and I will get in touch with you.

There is no shame in needing help. The shame comes in not giving it.

Freedom with Wisdom

Freedom does not choose
The priorities of right.
An educated culture
Is a nations strength and might.

Freedom cannot stand
Without an intellect,
It has a selfish nature
That lacks in self respect.

It's rather indiscriminate
In behavior's consequence.
Taking least resistance
In humanities events.

A culture must be taught to think
And have a love for youth,
With an independent mind
To determine right and truth.

Freedom without wisdom
Are in minds that lack direction.
They're never taught to wonder why
In tradition's long protection.

Independent thought
In a cultivated mind,
Is the only source of freedom
True Democracy can find.

IF A FILLING FALLS OUT

Every dentist I've ever met would like his patient's fillings to last forever. However, while a good many restorations do sustain for the life of the tooth, no filling ever becomes an organic, integral part of it. Thus none CAN be guaranteed to last indefinitely.

Even a filling placed with the best of intentions and preparation can fail for a variety of reasons. If there is not enough of an undercut in the remaining tooth structure, the filling can fall out. Occasionally a part of the tooth around the filling will break, loosening the lock, and the filling will fall out. If decay somehow recurs, the filling may become surrounded by decay, loosen and fall out. It should also be noted that, the larger the filling, the greater the risk of fracture from chewing forces.

What can you do when a filling does fall out? First, rinse your mouth carefully with lukewarm water to make sure the cavity is clean. If there is discomfort, a drop of oil of cloves on a piece of cotton will lessen it. See your dentist as soon as possible and have the filling replaced.

Greg's Emergency Room

Good old days revisited at this Westland lounge

Remember that first kiss...that high school prom? Greg Reid does. That's one reason the good ole days are back at Greg's Emergency Room Lounge, 31150 Palmer at Merriman in Westland.

Fresh from an $8,000 remodeling effort, this establishment is just the place for, as its promotional literature says, "a trip down memory lane."

Those who enjoy the music of the 50s and 60s can listen and dance to the sounds of The Renegades on Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights. And for those who remember affordable prices, Greg's menu will raise a few eyebrows.

Luncheon specials, served weekdays from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m., are priced at 99 cents each and include a ½ pound ground steak, breaded veal cutlet sandwich, wing dings, fish sandwich, hot ham sandwich and a breaded chicken sandwich. A hot dog costs 50 cents.

"You wouldn't believe how many different kinds of professional people come in here," said Reid, whose enthusiastic approach to his business has resulted in a growing clientele. "Everybody can have a lunch with a beer or a pop for under $2. And our ground round is the best that can be bought."

Regular menu sandwiches also are unbelievably inexpensive — ground steak ($1.65), ham ($1.95), fish ($1), breaded veal ($1.60), hot dog (75 cents) and breaded chicken ($1.60). Soup, chili, french fries, onion rings, french fried mushrooms and stuffed pizza complete the regular offerings.

In addition to the ground round, Reid points with pride to his fish and chips special, an all-you-can-eat dinner that includes french fries, cole slaw and bread for $2.95. This feature, available every Friday from 11 a.m. until 7 p.m., keeps the 150-seat lounge humming with activity.

"I remember one guy finishing off as much as two pounds of fish in one serving," said Reid with a laugh. "We serve cod and it's proven to be a very popular special."

Raised in Wayne and now a resident of Westland, Reid is firmly committed to the communities that help patronize his establishment. In addition to sponsoring numerous male and female athletic teams, Greg's Emergency Room has been the site of various charity events, including programs to benefit the Easter Seals and the fight against cancer.

"It's a gesture to do something for the people who patronize us," noted Reid, who is planning an affair for the Special Olympics. "We've been fortunate to have our business increase every year."

Such increases during the past four years have not been accidental. Affordable food and drink prices, a seven-foot television screen, a friendly atmosphere and numerous promotions have had their impact. As will, no doubt, the move to the music of past years.

"Everybody can relate to a bit of nostalgia," Reid explained. "We're drawing crowds from 25 to 60 (years old)."

Visiting hours at Greg's Emergency Room, named for its proximity to Wayne County General Hospital, are from 7 a.m. until 2 a.m. Monday through Saturday and from noon to 2 a.m. Sunday. Reservations for special parties can be made by calling 595-4888.

'Party Party' scores

PARTY PARTY
Various Artists
(A&M)

This is supposedly a soundtrack album, but even if the film never sees the light of day, it will have left it's mark. "Party Party" is a great collection of songs — some new, most cover versions of classics — to be savored for a long time to come.

The most notable new" song here is the title tune, written and performed by none other than Elvis Costello & The Attractions. "Party Party" (the song) is pure Elvis at his best, and it shows that his new material is up to the high standards he set for himself last year with "Imperial Bedroom."

Madness, the British ska-funsters also throw a strike with "Driving In My Car," singing, "I'm just driving in my car, though it ain't no Jag-y-ar."

Sting, the Police's vocal point, has two cuts here, both of them produced by rockabilly ace Dave Edmunds. "Tutti-Frutti" is just as much fun as you'd expect it to be, and Sting's reading of Little Willie John's blues gem "Need Your Love So Bad" is surprisingly well done.

Cover versions seems to have been the main order of the day, as Dave Edmunds adds a version of Chuck Berry's "Run Rudolph Run," making him about the 47th person to record Berry's yuletide tune.

Bad Manners, another ska band, add a delightful version of "Yakety Yak," and on the more serious side of ska, Pauline Black (formerly with Selector) does a very good version of the classic reggae number, "No Woman, No Cry."

Modern Romance, a new English band who have just released their first stateside record on Warner Bros. get a little funky on the oldie "Band Of Gold," while Chas and Dave get a little bit weird on "Auld Lang Syne," which has made it's way onto my "must" list of rock X-mas songs.

I've saved the best for last. Midge Ure, ex-Rich Kid now a member of Ultravox, pays homage to his roots with a synth version of David Bowie's "The Man Who Sold The World." Ure has taken out Mick Ronson's guitar line which carried the original, leaving the melody almost nonexistent. Almost, but he carries it off in grand style, probably not unlike Bowie would were he recording it today.

Last, and anything but least, is Bananarama. You may have seen these girls on MTV or on American Bandstand doing their hit "Really Saying Something," and if so, you know they're loads of fun.

Thirteen songs, all by top or rising artists, and all interesting if not great. After all, everybody loves a good "Party Party!"

'West Side Story' to debut in Wayne

Everything is in place for the Jan. 21 debut of Wayne Memorial High School's production of "West Side Story."

The production is unique for the high school, according to director Adele Price, in that cast members not only are musically inclined, they are drama students, as well.

"They are not doing this just for the fun of it," she explained. "They are serious about it."

In all, there are 94 students involved in the production — 41 in the cast, 28 in the pit orchestra, which will be trimmed before opening night and 25 in the stage crew.

The cast is not quite as large as the the high school's production of "Oklahoma," but their theater background is allowing the directors to achieve a higher level technically and in performance.

Working with Mrs. Price is Dorotha Schuler-Gleason as music director, Richard Grzesik as orchestra director, Colleen Kelly as choreorapher, Robert Walker, a teacher at Franklin Junior High School, who is the technical director, and Bill Ebeling, in charge of lighting.

Student director for the musical is Firmin T. Troye.

A theater classic, "West Side Story" is based on Shakespeare's "Romeo and Juliet." Tony, played by Joseph Colanne, the former leader of the Jets, a New York street gang, meets Maria, played by Laura Lynn Turbeville, the sister of Bernardo (Jeffrey Daniel Parlette), the leader of a rival gang, the Sharks.

While young love blossoms amid the tenaments, the Jets and Sharks prepare for a rumble that will determine whose "turf" the neighborhood is.

The ensuing rumble results in the deaths of Riff, played by David Troy New, leader of the Jets, and Bernardo and a search by Chino (Keith M. Nobozny) for Tony to avenge Bernardo's death.

Also appearing in the cast as members of the Jets are Michael John Jbara as Action, Timothy J. Killgrove as A-Rab, John-Michael Gozdick as Big Deal, Greg C. Partridge as Diesel, Brian Tatum as Tiger and Susan Jigger as Anybodys.

The Jets' girls will be played by Kimberly Perkins (Velma), Amanda V. Kostora (Graziella), Julie Gesch (Minnie), Michelle Mihail (Clarice), Rose Hammang (Pauline), Jennifer Parlettte (Bernice), Lisa Quintana (Laverne), Laura Smith (Wilma), Susan Smiley (Ruby), and Rhonda Nolan (Pearl).

Members of the Sharks include Kirk Ahlijian as Pepe, Daniel Carter as Luis, Kenneth Fethke as Anxious, Paul Woodin as Toro, Keith Groesbeck II as Moose and Christopher Marlow as Juano. Their girls include Patricia Bumpus (Anita), Kim Yousuf (Rosalia), Lisa Galerno (Consuelo), Loretta Lee (Francisca), Elizabeth Arthur (Teresita), Charlene Atkinson (Margarita), Edie Kurtz-Mills (Carmalita) and Melanie Kabina (Josephina).

Russell Holderness will play Doc, while Daniel Booth will play Schrank, Steve Sapp as Krupke and Kurt Smith as Glad Hand.

The musical will be presented at 8 p.m. Jan. 21 and 22 and at 2:30 p.m. Jan. 23 at the Stockmyer Performing Arts Center on Glenwood just west of Fourth Street, Wayne.

A special performance will be available on Jan. 20 at 8 p.m. for senior citizens who sign up at their activities center in Wayne and Westland. Cost of that special seniors only performance will be $1.

Tickets will cost $3.50 at the door. Pre-sale tickets, costing $3, are available at the high school.

'GM Care and Share'

U.F. to distribute canned foods

United Foundation today announced it will coordinate the distribution of General Motors Corporation's eight-week "GM Care and Share" food collection program, according to Robert E. Dewar, United Foundation Chairman of the Board.

In announcing UF's affiliation with the "GM Care and Share" program Dewar said, "The UF is pleased to participate with General Motors in this important community effort. The generosity of GM and its employees makes it possible to respond positively to this area's emergency food situation."

A cooperative effort involving UF, the Greater Detroit Chamber of Commerce, New Detroit, Inc. and United Community Services is being developed for collections donated by General Motors employees. Under the arrangement, UF will receive contributions and arrange for food distribution locally through a program which has been established by the Food Industry Council of the Greater Detroit Chamber of Commerce.

United Community Services, UF's community planning arm, and New Detroit are developing a community distribution network for contributed food.

The auto maker announced the "GM Care and Share" program earlier today and will collect canned goods and cash contributions from General Motors employees at their facilities throughout the country. GM will then contribute $.50 for each can donated by employees. In addition, the auto maker will match dollar for dollar any cash contributions made by employees.

"We are joining with other community and governmental food collection efforts in response to the emergency food problem in the metropolitan Detroit area," Dewar said. "We do not intend to duplicate the efforts of other groups, but work with others to meet the growing need for emergency food supplies."

Dewar said that UF is responding to a General Motors request for UF to coordinate its "GM Care and Share" program.

"Any cash contributions provided by General Motors and its employees will be used to purchase supplemental food supplies," Dewar said. "We will work with other organizations already set up to distribute food to those in need in Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties."

Dewar pointed out that food is especially needed during the winter months. Many families receive food baskets during the holidays but may be overlooked afterwards.

United Foundation's emergency food collection efforts, in conjunction with General Motors, is completely separate from its solicitation efforts, such as the annual Torch Drive.

Home sales continuing upward trend in '83

Lower mortgage interest rates are continuing to rouse the existing home market from a three-year hibernation.

The Western Wayne Oakland County Board of Realtors (WWOCBR) reported 564 sales by its members in December for a 42.4 percent gain over the 396 recorded a year earlier. The month was the fifth straight to show improvement over 1981.

Sales for August-December 1982 by the state's largest Realtor Board totalled 3,681 compared to 3,157 in 1981. The 16.5 percent gain helped counter the 24.3 percent market loss recorded in the first seven months. The year-end sales total of 8,468 homes was 10.7 percent below the 9,487 in 1981.

"There is no doubt that the reduction in interest rates is the factor bringing buyers back into the market," said Thomas Duke, Jr., WWOCBR president. "In December, conventional, FHA and VA financing was used in 42.2 percent of sales compared to only 14.4 percent in 1981.

Renewed activity also appears ready to reverse a downward trend in average selling prices. The average price reported by WWOCBR in December was $58,156, a 1.2 percent increase from December 1981. The $56,685 average price through all of 1982, however, was down 3.65 percent from the $58,156 recorded in 1981.

"The year-end report of area home builders indicates sales of existing homes are beginning to spark greater activity in the new home market," Duke said. "We know many prospective buyers are ready to make a move up, but have been forced to wait on the sale of their present residence.

"We think the rising trend in the housing market will continue into 1983 as buyers financially able to move, weigh the advantages of further declines in interest rates.

"Any hope for a market resurgence equal to the need and desire for better housing may remain stymied by high unemployment and the uncertain economy. But, the new year certainly holds far more promise for both buyers and sellers than the beginning of 1982, as the trends in sales look very good."

Glenn wins Salem wrestling invitational

Coach Buckalew: 'Toughest tourney in a number of years'

Labeling it as one of the toughest tournaments he or his team has completed with in recent years, Westland John Glenn coach Tom Buckalew and the Rockets captured the 1983 prestigious Plymouth Salem Wrestling Invitational held over the weekend in Plymouth.

The Westlanders garnered 143½ points to edge state-ranked Montrose by 1½ points to win the championship. Host Plymouth Salem placed third in a field of 16 teams with 132 points.

Other area schools who placed included Plymouth Canton, with 85½ points. The Chiefs wound up sixth. Belleville, a power in recent years, slipped to 15th with 37 points.

"This is one of the toughest tournaments I have seen in a number of years," Coach Buckalew said. "Every school had several outstanding wrestlers. I was pleased with our team's over-all effort, and our wrestlers performed extremely well under pressure."

"Obviously, with the final score as close as it is, we were fortunate to win," he offered.

Glenn came away with two gold medals thanks to the performances of Bob Paciocco, who earned the title at 145. Teammate Don Forchione was the top 155-pounder at the invitational.

The Westlanders also had two runners-up in Rick Gillies (98) and Mike Rossi (119), while the champs earned third place medals through Dan Gibson (112) and Don Aloisi (198). Tom Gibson took a fourth place in the 105 pound class.

Salem had the distinction of putting the Most Valuable Wrestler on the mat. Senior John Beaudoin (138) was awarded the MVW Award after he claimed a narrow 8-7 victory over Mt. Clemens' Harold Thompson.

Salem had another champ in John Jeanotte who defeated Glenn's Rossi, 7-1, in the 119 pound class.

Belleville and Canton each had gold medalists. Belleville was represented in the winner's circle with 132-pounder Bruce Nigg who stunned Montrose's Ken Reinhart, 3-2, while Canton's Tim Collins also won a close 5-4 decision over Mount Clemens' Mark White in the 126-pound class.

Glenn resumes dual meet competition this week, boasting an 8-0 record. It has won two of the three tournaments it has entered this year and has moved up the state ratings this week to sixth place.

Streaks are made...

All alone with this rebound is Westland John Glenn's Jack Walker (54) who has played a crucial role in the Rockets 7-1 season. That one loss, however, was a big one which came in overtime at Thurston, who moved into undisputed possession of first place in the Northwest Suburban Conference.

Fordson is next

Wayne remains undefeated with win over Glenn tankers

Wayne Memorial swimmers picked up where they left off the old year as they dunked natural rival Westland John Glenn 74-52 to stretch their dual meet winning streak to five straight.

Coach Jim McPartlin's Zebras stashed away eight of the 11 events with Eric Head and Matt Hathorne figuring in three of those victories. Head, a senior and one of the finest all-around swimmers in the school's history, took firsts in the 200-yard individual medley (2:08.8) and in the 100-yard freestyle (50.1).

He then teamed with Brian Byndas, Tony DarkAngelo and Matt Hathorne to win the 400-yard freestyle relay in 3:33.3.

McPartlin was satisfied with his team's over-all output, but said this week's confrontation with a highly-improved Fordson contingent could determine the outcome of the final Great Lakes 8 Conference championship.

The league will admit new members next year, while some have present members who will depart for other conferences.

"We're looking forward to the Fordson meet," said McPartlin. "They have some excellent swimmers and it will be a good test for our kids."

Wayne will travel to the Dearborn-based high school's pool on Thursday. The meet is scheduled to get underway at 7 p.m.

Against Glenn, Wayne's Matt Hathorne also had an excellent night as he also contributed victories in the 200-yard freestyle (1:54.8) and the 100-yard butterfly (57.4) and was on the winning freestyle relay team.

Armstrong wears Wayne cage jersey

Daran Armstrong, all-time leading scorer at Westland John Glenn and now a senior at Wayne State University, has found himself a home in the line-up for the Tartars.

Armstrong played for Glenn for three years (1976-1979) and helped spark the Rockets to a 48-15 record in that span including two Northwest Suburban League titles and one district championship. On the way, he set school records for points (1106), assists (447) and steals (122).

He continued his fine play at Henry Ford Community College where he was All-Conference and All-State. Transferring to Wayne State in his junior year, he started 17 games and averaged 7.8 points per game with a season-high of 18.

This season, he has started nearly every game and has averaged 10.1 ppg with a season-high of 19.

The son of Buford and Gail Armstrong of Westland, Daran is majoring in business and aspires to enter law school.

'Rusty' Spartans rip Crestwood

"It was a good game for us, considering that we had been off for two weeks since the Christmas vacations and I thought we would be rusty."

That's what Cherry Hill Coach Dave Bogataj had to say after his Spartans destroyed Dearborn Heights Crestwood 63-55 as the Tri-River Conference basketball league resumed action last week.

The Spartans were all but rusty as four players hit in double figures and managed to stay ahead most of the game. Cherry Hill quickly established itself as Ken Weatherby, Art Hartman, Lou Smith and Vondale Tate played over 22 turnovers and a 5-of-15 performance from the free throw line.

Cherry Hill, with Hartman scoring eight of his 14 points in the first period, broke out in front 24-14 and stayed ahead 39-28 for two periods before outscoring their league rivals 12-8 in the third frame.

Hartman snared 10 rebounds and was joined by Weatherby in the battle to control the boards. Weatherby finished with a team high 15 points and also 13 rebounds. Smith and Tate split 20 points between them.

Crestwood stayed in the game on the strength of 6-1 forward Tim Kormous's sharpshooting. Kormous pumped in 13 from the field and hit on 3 of 5 from the foul line for individual scoring honors of 29 points. Jim White added 10 points for the Chargers.

"I feel if we can hold down those turnovers to a minimum this team will become a factor in the title race," Coach Bogataj said. "Our kids are gaining confidence, but the key is not giving up the ball as readily as we have through out own mistakes."

Cherry Hill gets a look at league newcomer Allen Park Friday night which will host this first meeting.

"They have an excellent basketball program over there," Bogataj said. "They had a slip in the enrollment and are now a Class B team. And, believe me, they can play basketball."

The Spartans took a 2-2 league record into Tuesday's contest at home with Southgate.

Thurston burns Glenn in overtime thriller

Emotion was the name of the game last Friday night as the two top teams in the Northwest Suburban League — Westland John Glenn and Redford Thurston — squared off in a battle for first place.

And what a battle it was before a standing room only crowd.

Both teams fought tooth-and-nail for four quarters before the Thurston Eagles settled matters in overtime, 67-63, in front of a standing room only crowd at Thurston.

It was a heart-rending loss for the Rockets, made harder by the fact that they had recovered from a seven-point halftime deficit and had built a nine-point lead late in the fourth quarter.

Coach Dan Henry, whose teams have had nothing but problems with Thurston over the last few years, said: "We played our hearts out. We couldn't make our one on one shots. Next time (February 11), we must play even better on defense."

But to Thurston's credit, the Eagles played "hustling basketball and they are a team that never quits."

An extremely well-coached team under the direction of Gary Fraylick, the Eagles were able to devise a defense to keep Glenn's 6-8 center Paul Grazulis and 6-5 forward Jack Walker from being too effective on the offensive end of the floor.

Thurston was led by George Sibel (6-2, 170, Sr.) who shot the lights out on this night with 27 points. Another key player, Jim Weiss (6-3, 205, Sr.) "has been a good addition for this team and has made them as good as they are." He, too, can (and did) light up the scoreboard as he can shoot from anywhere on the floor.

Thurston entered the game with a 5-1 record, Glenn at 7-2. The Rockets were coming off a tough win Tuesday night at Livonia Churchill, 47-44. Taking a 23-16 lead at halftime thanks to 16 points from Greg Gill and Grazulis, the Rockets had to scramble for the win when the Chargers made a determined effort for the win.

But the ball-handling skills of Gill, the jump shot of Walker and the clutch free-throw shooting of Mike Baydarian won the game for the Rockets and put them in a good frame of mind for the Thurston game.

Thurston came out in the first quarter determined to put a quick end to the game and go a game up in the league race. The Eagles outscored Glenn, 13-9, in the first quarter but the hot-hand of Gill kept them close.

In the second quarter, Glenn's defense started taking its toll on Redford. Thurston did outscore the Rockets, 16-13, in the quarter to take a 29-22 halftime lead. But the Eagles had to fight hard to stay ahead. Todd Jennings finally got his chance to play against a Thurston team this year (he missed the football game due to injury) and played a great defensive game. Jennings, according to Henry, "played another great game on both ends of the floor." For the night, Jennings hit 17 points.

The story of the second quarter was the number of fouls called on Glenn, and the number of foul shots that Thurston hit at the free throw line. Steve Smith (5-11, 160, Sr.) hit six free throws for the Eagles, and as it turned out, that was the point difference at halftime.

Whatever Coach Henry said to his team at halftime seemed to work as Glenn took charge in the third quarter. Led by the defensive play of senior Steve Jaskolski, who "played well and helped contain Weiss well during most of the game." Glenn outhustled the Eagles and got their hands on nearly every loose ball.

The Rockets used balanced scoring from the entire line-up, getting 11 points from guards Gill and Baydarian. Several of Gill's baskets throughout the evening were beautiful shots from outside as Thurston's defense was keeping the Rockets from penetrating the middle and "played the zone well and kept us out of the middle."

Glenn led, 44-41, after three quarters but Thurston came alive in the fourth quarter. Glenn built their lead to nine, 57-48, with about five minutes left in the game but the Eagles refused to fold. Sibel, a candidate for All-League honors, shot the lights out in the final stanza with 10 points plus four free throws, as he singlehandedly brought the Eagles back to a tie at 62-all.

The Rockets did, however, have a problem entering the overtime period. They had lost both Walker and Grazulis on fouls late in the fourth quarter and Glenn was forced to play the extra session without their two big men. But the Rockets will adapt their play to any situation.

Jaskolski won the tip to start the overtime and Glenn looked in good shape. Jaskolski was fouled and hit one of two shots to give Glenn its' last lead of the evening. Thurston's Dan Starinsky and Smith hit two baskets and Weiss hit a free throw to clinch the 67-63 victory.

As Thurston's players and fans danced jubiliantly off the floor with their victory and a 3-0 league record, the Rockets could only look at a 2-1 league record and second place.

But ahead of Glenn is a tough road and the Rockets must re-group. Fortunately, the next four games are at home and the Rockets have had success there all season. First up, on Friday, is old nemesis North Farmington. The Raiders come in with a new coach, Tom Negotian, who was an assistant at Orchard Lake Community College, and look to tighten up the league race even further.

"I am concerned about how the kids will respond after a tough loss," said Henry, "but we'll be ready for North."

The Junior Varsity made it 8 out of 10 this season as they came from behind to defeat Thurston, 69-57, on the strength of 25 points from Brad Martin, and 16 apiece from Ron Taig and Steve Henson.

Ten Pin Topics

Some pertinent facts about bowling

By JIM WRUBLEWSKI

As league bowlers, many of us are familiar with the names American Bowling Congress and Womens' International Bowling Congress. At the beginning of the season we pay our fee, get our sanction card, and pretty much take things for granted from there on. Some of us have a vague idea that there is someone out there taking care of things, but are not too sure of who it is or what is being accomplished.

In the weeks ahead we will try and give you some idea of what these organizations do and what we get for the few dollars a season it may cost us.

Although both groups function separately they are fundamentally alike. Being more familiar with the ABC group the information I will list will be, basically, concerning that particular group.

One of the most often asked questions is: "Do we really need a group like that around?"

If, for now, we disregard all of the many services they provide and just consider standardization of equipment and conditions, we have enough to justify their existence.

Can you imagine what it would be like if there were no specifications for the equipment we use and then manufacturers and proprietors tried to satisfy our demands for conditions which gave us higher scores? Sure, we might have fun for a while with the big games and averages going up, but what happens when reality hits us?

Eventually we would realize that an average from one center would be completely meaningless anywhere else. Each center would be using its own unique gimmicks to meet our demands and there would be absolutely no way of comparing conditions or averages. While it is true that, as we move from one establishment to the next, conditions are different; but they are, at least, different within comparable limits. Specifications have been developed, and are in effect, which control how lane dressing must be applied. Based on extensive testing over several years, both under laboratory and actual conditions, the specified application methods result in the best overall situation for both the bowler and the lane.

Two primary reasons lane dressing is applied are: first, to keep the ball from hooking too quickly as it hits the lane, and; secondly, to reduce the extremely high temperatures (temperatures high enough to literally scorch the lane surface-approx. 1000 degrees) that result from the friction between ball and lane at it's delivery.

The bowling pins are controlled according to dimensional size, balance, and weight. Pin weight can be anywhere from 3 lb. 2 oz. to 3 lb. 10 oz. but pins within a single set of 10 pins must not vary more than 4 oz. A pair of lanes uses 4 sets of pins (that, by the way, costs about $100 per set) which further controls conditions.

If a bowler should roll a perfect 300 game the lanes, pins, and ball must be inspected by representatives of the ABC within a given time limit and before lanes are prepared for the next day's use. When the bowler has his score certified he knows that his accomplishment is legitimate and not due to some artificial set up. The bowler can rightfully take pride in what he has done.

Super Bowl scoring was paced by the ladies and the younger set when Mary Ann Tucker hit 22-216-203 for 641; Karen Tocco had a very respectable 269 game; and young, Mike Spawen, had games of 202-247-216 for a 665 series. Bob Krist had a nice 290 game to begin his New Year; Steve Londeau had 280 for a 693 total; Bob Scherle hit a 265 game; Rod Bramble finished with a 691; Tom Coleman had 671; and Chuck Berghoff totaled an acceptable 667 series for his night out.

The official results of the "700" tournament at Westland Bowl had Gil Reppenhagen Sr. winning with an actual series of 691 plus a 36 pin handicap for 727; Rick Williams finished next with 722; and Bob Grenier at 704 was third.

High scoring highlights there included Phil Kupras with a 742 series on games of 238-246-258; Rick Williams with a 731; John Kmiecik at 713; Ron Krohn had 692; and Bob Baker hit 279 on his way to a 666 series.

At Fiesta Lanes, John Bint went 121 pins over his average to hit a respectable 279 game; Steve Souder hit 739; Randy Gazab had a 278 game and 735 series; Denise Williams paced the ladies with a 230 game; Dave Hebert made the impossible 7-10 split; and young Steve Payne (13-16 year group) went a monumental 201 pins over his average by hitting a 594 series.

To cap this weeks scoring, Mike White flirted with perfection when he hit 299 at Lodge Lanes recently and Grenda Guzal led the ladies with a 256 game.

Belleville cage machine continues to roll

Off to its finest start in recent years, Belleville cagers launched the New Year with impressive victories over neighboring Romulus and Suburban 8 Conference rival, Trenton, last week.

The Tigers 62-52 triumph over Trenton provided them with an untarnished 2-0 conference record and established them as the team to beat in the final "Sub-8" title race. (The conference will have a facelift next year). Belleville is 6-1 over-all on the season.

"We don't have the height, but we are playing aggressively and using our speed to our advantage," noted Belleville coach Tom Niemi, whose charges clash with undefeated and 10th ranked Taylor Truman Friday night on the home court.

"However, we still have this problem of turnovers, and they can haunt you if you don't get rid of them," Niemi added.

Trenton came out shooting against Belleville Friday night and jumped to a 16-10 first period lead before Michael Mellon and Bobby Edwards rallied the Tigers. Mellon, a 6-3 forward, sacked eight of his game high 18 points in the second period, while Edwards also sank eight, to help time the game before intermission at 28-all.

Niemi switched defensive tactics in the second half "to force Trenton to play our kind of game" and it paid off. The Tigers outscored Trenton 10-8 in the third period and had command of the situation 48-36 heading into the final frame where they kept a comfortable 20-point cushion most of the time.

Mellon added 10 rebounds to go with his 18 points, while Troy Thomas and Edwards each finished the night with 12 points. Rodney Palmer and Bobby Griffin each contributed eight points, coming off the bench in order to do so.

In the meantime, Jerome Roberson provided the last second heroics and the winning basket as Belleville came from far behind to nip and frustrate neighboring Romulus 64-63 before a standing room only crowd at Belleville High. The game was the first of the New Year and Niemi was "extremely happy to win."

"It was one of those games that we continued to look for five players who could do the job for us after we had fallen back by more than 15 points. I feel fortunate to win it because it looked like we were going to be blown off the court."

Romulus' Al Wilkerson responded that he felt personal fouls to key players such as Grant Long and Perkins turned the tide against his team.

"I felt that the second period was the crucial period for us," Wilkerson added. "Our bench's inability to replace starters and 11 turnovers which they (Belleville) managed to score on eight times really killed us. But, believe me, our kids are looking forward to a rematch."

If a rematch does occur it will happen in the district tournament. Both teams will see action at Ypsilanti High School in March.

With Kevin Baker and Long paving the way, the Eagles grabbed what appeared to be a commanding 17-point edge over their hosts. They led 23-17 and 45-37 after the first two period, but Belleville's comeback, paced by Mellon, cut into that lead, turning it into a 51-46 match after three periods.

Belleville had a three-point edge with 2:30 left in the game and Niemi decided to go into the "4-corner" strategy, but the Tigers lost the ball on a traveling violation and Baker came down and scored, giving Romulus the lead 63-62. Fouled during the shot, Baker could have put the game away but missed the free throw.

"We called time out," Niemi said, "and decided to go with Vawters (Keith) on the last shot."

Vawter's attempt skimmed the rim and Roberson was there to put in the tap-in, moving the Tigers out in front, 64-63.

Roberson, along with the decisive baket, had 14 points, while Mellon scored a team high 21 points. Thomas also was in double figures with 13 for the Tigers who made 12 of 18 at the free throw line.

Baker hit on eight from the field and had 8 of 14 free throws for individual scoring honors at 24. Long added 21 and Terry Roache contributed eight.

Romulus cagers overpower Huron

New Boston Huron was just what the ailing Romulus cagers needed for a morale-booster.

After six consecutive losses, including a cliffhanging, last-second defeat at the hands of neighboring Belleville, Coach Al Wilkerson's Eagles invaded New Boston Friday night and claimed a one-sided 76-39 triumph over the Chiefs.

"It was a good win for us," said Coach Wilkerson whose cagers had a rematch with Dearborn Heights Robichaud last night and will face Ann Arbor Huron at home Friday night. "There's a lot of inexperience on this team and we're looking for a leader."

That leader may be Terry Roache who emerged form the New Boston contest with "one of his finest overall performances of the year," according to the Romulus coach.

"He (Roache) played an excellent game for us and he has to continue to play that way if we are going to continue to win and become a contender in the district playoffs."

As for Huron, the Chiefs really didn't put up a battle against Romulus who outmanned their hosts in every department. The Eagles, behind the sharpshooting of Roache, Kevin Baker and Grant Long, jumped out in front 17-8 in the first period and widened the margin to 39-16 at the half.

Wilkerson, substituting freely, managed to get all of his players in the game.

Baker drilled 11 field goals and picked up three free throws for a game high 25 points while Roache contributed 20 points. Grant, with 11, was the only other Romulus player in double figures.

Huron got 18 points out of Dennis Edmonds, who led his team, while Jody Neilson counted 12 points.

CANCELLATIONS AND CORRECTIONS

Read your ad carefully the first time it appears, and report any errors before the next edition. This will be the only proof you will receive. Errors should be reported immediately, as Associated Newspapers, Inc. can be responsible for the first incorrect insertion only. NO CASH REFUNDS WILL BE MADE.

PUBLICATION POLICY

The publisher reserves the right to edit or reject and properly classify advertising submitted for publication. Publisher shall not be held liable for typographical errors except to the extent of the cost of first insertion and then only for that portion of ad that may have been rendered valueless by such error. Advertisers are advised to check their ad immediately after it appears in the paper and report at once any error found. Claims for error adjustment must be made immediately after ad is published.

HOW TO WRITE A GOOD CLASSIFIED AD

1. IT'S ALWAYS BEST to start your advertisement with the name of the item or service you have to offer. If you have an apartment or room for rent or property for sale, it's better to start your advertisement with the location.
2. BE CLEAR. Readers react more quickly and favorably when given complete or definite information. One of the most important considerations of any advertisement is to include the price.
3. MAKE IT EASY for the reader prospect to reach you. ALWAYS INSERT your telephone number or your name and address if you do not have regular hours, state a preferred time to have prospects contact you.
4. PLACE YOURSELF in the reader's position and ask yourself what you would like to know (about your offer). The answer you give will make a good classified ad.
5. CLASSIFIED READERS ARE already interested in buying used or new merchandise. These people have the money and are in the market to buy. Give them every advantage you can with good ad copy.
6. CLASSIFIED ADS THAT FAIL do so not through a lack of readership, but because they are often quickly worded and do not contain enough information to prompt action.

1983 DETROIT AUTO SHOW

The most complete lineup of 1983 domestic and imported automobile models will be available at the Detroit Auto Show beginning Saturday and continuing through Jan. 23.

At the annual event, 1983 auto displays and technological exhibits join more than 250 new cars and trucks for viewing by the public.

Chairman of the show this year, Martin J. McInerney, claims that the 1983 display will be outstanding. "We sincerely believe that this is the year for the big turnaround in car sales. Interest rates are coming down. The manufacturers have been holding sticker prices down, and we believe there's an enormous amount of pent-up demand that's about to set loose a landslide of sales," he is quoted as saying in a recent "Michigan Living" interview.

Show hours are noon until 10:30 p.m. Saturdays and Sundays and from 2 until 10:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Admission is $4 for adults, $1 for children and free to children under 12 years of age accompanied by parents.

Proceeds from the event will benefit our metropolitan Detroit charities including Boys' and Girls' Clubs of Metropolitan Detroit, the Easter Seal Society of Crippled Children and Adults in Wayne, Oakland and Macomb Counties, the Northeast Guidance Center for Emotionally Disturbed Children and Children's Center.

Co-sponsors of the charity benefit are the presidents of American Motors Corp., Ford Motor Company, General Motors Corp., and Volkswagen of America, Inc., and their wives, as well as Mayor Coleman Young representing the City of Detroit.

This is the 67th year for the annual presentation.
